

FOR A TOUR OF EASTERN VIRGINIA

Times-Dispatch Good Roads and Industrial Car Off Again.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Industrial Editor Woodson Will Swap Ideas With People Along the Route.

The Times-Dispatch good roads and industrial car will leave The Times-Dispatch Building this morning at 7 o'clock for a tour of Eastern Virginia counties, to be absent for ten days or two weeks. The car will be in charge of Industrial Editor Frank S. Woodson.

From Richmond the car will go into New Kent county, and thence to Charles City, James City, York and Warwick counties. Crossing to Smithfield by boat, the tour will then include Isle of Wight, Nanamoud, Southampton, Surry, Sussex and Prince George counties, with good-road meetings in each county seat and at other available points.

This trip of the good roads and industrial car will be the hurried scouting tour that was absolutely necessary on other trips made, but will be mainly for heart-to-heart conferences with the people on that route. The desire of The Times-Dispatch is to learn the views of the people on the great subjects of good roads and industrial and agricultural development, and to let the people know The Times-Dispatch's position on those subjects.

Mr. Woodson will take time to talk with the people, and, at any place on the route where two or three are gathered together, there will be a meeting and a swapping of ideas on good roads and industrial and agricultural development.

Actual Work Begins.

Actual road-building in Hanover county will begin on August 15, when three contracts in the three districts of the county will be awarded, for immediate execution. C. H. Oliver, one of the supervisors of Hanover, was in Richmond yesterday, and reported the growth of the road law in the county, and the fact that the Beaver Dam District, having consented to an increase of 5 cents in the county levy for road-building, while provision for road funds to meet the requirements of the State-aid road law have also been made in the county. Oliver said that the road law in the county is now in a position to begin on the section of road from Ground Squirrel Bridge to the Louisa county line, the road to be thoroughly drained and have ten inches of gravel over all, to be rolled into a compact eight-inch surface. Another section of about five miles will begin in August on the section of road from Ground Squirrel Bridge to the Louisa county line, the road to be thoroughly drained and have ten inches of gravel over all, to be rolled into a compact eight-inch surface. Another section of about five miles will begin in August on the section of road from Ground Squirrel Bridge to the Louisa county line, the road to be thoroughly drained and have ten inches of gravel over all, to be rolled into a compact eight-inch surface.

In Princess Anne. W. W. Cox, of Princess Anne county, was in Richmond yesterday. He hopes the road fever will shortly strike his county, where there is room for improvement in the methods of working the roads. The county has several scrapers and road machines, but has not yet adopted a comprehensive policy of building a system of permanent highways, preferring to continue to patch old roads.

Good News From Mecklenburg. Here's good news for good roads from Mecklenburg, says a letter from T. H. Byrd, of Boynton, to The Times-Dispatch:

"The people here are looking with much interest for the good roads car to be sent out in a few days by The Times-Dispatch. The people here are waking up to the importance of good roads, and The Times-Dispatch is arousing public sentiment in the matter of the improvement of the public highways. Already over $100,000 has been raised in two districts of Mecklenburg county for macadamizing the roads in these districts, and now work has begun on the roads. It is probable, if these improvements are successful, that other districts of the county will follow suit."

The question is: "Shall we have good roads?"

The answer is: "Yes."

Read the following, and you'll know.

the reason why. It's from the new Democratic magazine, The National Monthly:

Course of the Wise Man.

"Prove to the wisest manufacturer that the installation of a new set of shafting will save his engines and lower his coal bills and he hastens to make the change, even at a vast first cost; convince a common-sense publisher that type-setting machines will reduce his composition bills, and he quickly contracts for a bank of linotypes at an enormous outlay; make it plain to the president of a railway company that a new firebox will give its locomotive more speed and a greater steaming mileage, and he instantly orders millions spent in their installation."

"Then prove to the nation that the building of country roads will bring about a cash-saving of a billion dollars each twelve months. Will the government follow the example of business forethought set by manufacturers, publishers, or railway men? To answer in pure North Carolinianese: 'Well, sensibly.'"

"Drive the same information deep into the brain of the dozen million men most immediately interested—the farmers. Do they get excited and rush to county boards and State Legislatures to demand that their interests be cared for, and that the very appreciable sum of a billion be saved to them?"

"Not so frantically that anybody is swept away by the rush."

The Farmers' Mistake.

"No, they continue to wear out horses by forcing them through knee-deep quagmires, to smash weapons by plunging them over hummocks and into ruts; to ruin harness by striving to drive through roads which would be more adapted to submarine boats than to wagons, and to use two horses to haul half as great a load as one horse could haul in half the time if the highways were actual highways rather than menaces."

"Therein lies the difference between the big manufacturer, the progressive publisher, the wide-awake railway president, and the easy-going, near-sighted, slow-thinking farmer. If the first three see a way to magnify future rewards they hasten to the improvement. If the farmer happens to detect a method of bettering his condition, he looks at first cost. That hurts his eyes; he heaves a sigh and gives it up."

NEGROES ASSAULT COUNTY OFFICER

Policeman Is Unmercifully Beaten When He Attempts to Make Arrest.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

FARMVILLE, VA., August 3.—A telegram was received here to-day from Prospect, ten miles west of Farmville, asking for police aid in apprehending and arresting a number of negroes, who, it is reported, assaulted J. C. Cheadle, a county policeman. Chief of Police Fugus and Sheriff Dickinson left on the midday train for the scene of trouble. Late reports from Prospect are that three of the negroes implicated are under arrest, and the officers are in pursuit of others. The report also says that Officer Cheadle was terribly beaten about the head, and is probably injured internally. It is reported here that Cheadle went to a negro house in the upper part of the county to make an arrest. He was caught by several stalwart negroes and unmercifully beaten. It was only by the intervention of a negro woman, who begged that the officer's life be spared, that he was allowed to escape alive.

News of Manchester

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, 1102 Hull Street.

Colonel Robert Callett, candidate for Attorney General, will move a strong showing in Manchester to-morrow at the primary, that is, if hard work will count for anything. He has made several visits to the city and each time has made friends here. He spent the entire afternoon and evening here yesterday, and in speaking of his chances said he felt that he would carry the city by a good majority.

Last night the probable result of the primary was being discussed on every side, and many persons were heard to make estimates as to how Manchester would go for Governor. It seems to be the unanimous opinion that the vote on the governorship will be exceedingly close, with the odds slightly in favor of Mann.

Notwithstanding this two well-known men were reported last night

CLEAR THE COMPLEXION OVERNIGHT

Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, Etc., Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Ever since its discovery, posam, the new skin remedy, has, in its extraordinary and complete, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialists who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema, and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped by the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use posam for these minor skin troubles should immediately secure one of the special 50-cent packages recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may be obtained in Richmond, in Tragle's and other leading drug stores.

For samples for experimental purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City.

SEEKS TO RECOVER VALUABLE LAND

Norfolk Goes Into Court to Prove Perpetual Leases Invalid.

$2,000,000 IS INVOLVED

Town Point Held Under Action of Council More Than 100 Years Ago.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA., August 3.—For the purpose of testing the validity of the perpetual leases under which various individuals and corporations hold from the city the property known as Town Point, the Common Council to-night unanimously adopted a resolution of the Finance Committee directing City Attorney Duncan to institute suit against Thomas H. Wilcox and Tazewell Taylor, two of the lessees claiming title to lot No. 11, which fronts 80 feet on the south side of West Main Street. While the proposed suit directly involves only a small part of the Town Point district, the whole of which is valued at more than $2,000,000, a court decision in the matter would, it is claimed, be determinative of the city's rights in the remainder, and for that reason the action is regarded with grave interest.

More than a hundred years ago the City Councils leased out the Town Point property for a rental, which, in comparison with the present value of the district, is nominal. For many years no question was raised in regard to the legal status of the leases, and the city made no effort to collect a tax on the property. At length, however, a tax was required, and when the lessees refused to pay it on the ground that the city owned the property, the matter was carried into the courts, where it remains unsettled.

Recent legal investigation of the original disposition of the property by the Councils resulted in a movement to have the city undertake to re-acquire the district by legal proceedings. It being held that the Councils had disposed of it in an illegal manner.

to have placed a bet on the result in the city, which was $100 to $75 that Mann would get a majority in the city of Manchester. Checks for these amounts were placed in the hands of a well-known business man.

D. L. Toney will unquestionably get a good majority in this city over his opponent, Carter Harrison, for the House of Delegates. Mr. Toney predicts that he will get a majority of between 200 and 250 in the city.

Mrs. Eliza H. Beasley Dead. Mrs. Eliza H. Beasley died yesterday afternoon at her residence, 760 Decatur Street. Mrs. Beasley was one of the oldest residents of the First Ward, and is survived by two daughters and one son, R. A. Beasley.

The remains will be taken to Petersburg on a special car over the Richmond and Petersburg electric line to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment will be made in Blandford Cemetery.

ANGLERS DEFY OTHERS TO EQUAL THEIR CATCH

Come Back From Chickahominy With 84 Rockfish, Weighing 1,300 Pounds—Offer $50 to Man or Men Who Will Match Record With Rod or Net.

With bags full, and several strings too heavy for each man to carry his share, a crowd of fishermen returned from the swamps of the Chickahominy a day or two ago and have since been bragging that they hold the record for "catches" in that famous fishing quarter. The game was landed near Providence Forge, in "Sally's Hole," a small cove where the famous place is said to be a fisherman's haunt.

"I am proud to say I was one of the gang, and helped to land the eighty-four fish that tipped the scales at 1,300 pounds," said a fisherman yesterday.

It sounds like a story out of the whole cloth, but we certainly showed them to enough people to verify all we have to say. No, we didn't catch them with hook and line. A net got them in the afternoon. We had fished all day, with mighty little sport."

Other sportsmen say it was a shame to take such a great quantity by net, but it is questionable whether any fishermen, and there are hundreds of them in Richmond who make their headquarters in the Chickahominy, would have realized the chance to have made such a valuable haul.

The largest fish weighed nearly forty pounds, and the fishermen claim he is the biggest of his breed ever brought from the Chickahominy.

When the anglers for such they really are, reached Richmond it was necessary to employ help to bring the load uptown. The catch was shown in several clubrooms, and to show that there is no exaggeration, a local hotel man weighed the eighty-four, and has the result carefully locked in his safe.

One of the anglers says: "I'll give $50 to the next man, or set of men, who comes back from the Chickahominy with a bigger catch than ours."

When some one varies at this point and interrupted with the statement that Virginia also has the best Superintendent of Public Instruction in the South there was long and loud applause.

The morning conference was led by Secretary Stearnes, who discussed with the superintendents the work which they would be called upon to do. The relation of the superintendents to the district boards, and the electoral board and the county boards was fully brought out, many of those present joining in the discussions which followed.

The afternoon session the reports required of the superintendents were explained by Secretary Stearnes and fully discussed in round-table conferences. Other sessions will be held to-morrow morning and afternoon, and possibly by night the conference will adjourn.

LEADERS IN EDUCATION MEETING IN FARMVILLE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

FARMVILLE, VA., August 3.—Four-fifths of the division superintendents of schools of the State are here in Farmville upon the conference in regard to the educational work of Virginia. They are being entertained by the State in the building of the State Female Normal School. To-night the Farmville Board of Trade entertained the visitors at an informal reception held at the Normal School. Dr. W. E. Anderson presided, and acted as toastmaster. Mayor Blanton made a short address of welcome, which was responded to by Superintendent P. E. Atkinson, of Prince Edward, J. Taylor Thompson spoke to the toast, "Our Guests." Rev. Samuel C. Hatcher, of "The State Female Normal School," and State Superintendent Eggleston to "Virginia Schools."

A number of short addresses were made by some of the visitors, including Dr. Garvin Rawles, of Isle of Wight; Frank West, of Louisa; Willis A. Jenkins, of Newport News, and R. C. Stearnes, secretary of the State Board of Education.

Most of the educators arrived last night, but some came in this morning. About twenty of the division superintendents are absent. The first of the conferences was held this morning, State Superintendent Eggleston presiding, and R. C. Stearnes acting as secretary. In his opening address, which was brief, Mr. Eggleston stated it as his opinion that he was facing not only the most vigorous and efficient body of superintendents that Virginia has ever had, but the best of any State in the South, if not the United States.

When some one varies at this point and interrupted with the statement that Virginia also has the best Superintendent of Public Instruction in the South there was long and loud applause.
